

The Ken & Ann Watts Memorial Foundation Scholarships

*Ken Watts founded what is now called the Sears Ontario Drama Festival in 1946 in Toronto. For almost thirty years Ken and his wife Ann encouraged and supported high school students and teachers in the pursuit of excellence in theatre. Through the festivals which they promoted and administered, opportunities were provided for thousands of young people across Ontario to develop their talents. Many of them are now valued members of the Performing Arts professions. The warm, personal interest that Ken and Ann Watts had in young actors, directors, designers and playwrights, and their dedication in serving them, will long be treasured. After Ann's death in 1981, a scholarship foundation was established in her name. Following Ken's death in 2002, the name of the foundation was changed and the awards are now given in both of their names: The Ken & Ann Watts Memorial Foundation Scholarships.
